

SNAPSHOT OF PRESIDENT ON TOUR; VIEW OF BIG TUNNELL HE WILL OPEN

The great Gunnison tunnel, the first project undertaken by the United States government reclamation service, will be completed on Sept. 23, and President Taft will open the gates of the tunnel, turning the flow of the Gunnison river into the network of canals that will irrigate 150,000 acres of land. President Taft and his party will leave Grand Junction, Colo., at 11:15 a. m. Sept. 23, arriving at Montrose at 2:15 p. m. and remaining there until 10 o'clock that night. A big celebration is prepared there in his honor and to mark the installation of the tunnel. The Gunnison tunnel is in Montrose county, in the Uncompahgre valley. Work has been in progress on the project for four and a half years.

The tunnel is six miles long and will have a capacity of 1,300 cubic feet of water per second. It cost $5,000,000. The lands to be irrigated are suitable for fruit growing and nearly all kinds of crops, and the water from the Gunnison river will turn a vast desert into a garden spot. This snapshot of President Taft was taken on his present tour of the west.

TO TEACH BIRD VALUE Huge Loss to Crops May Thus Be Saved

New York, Sept. 21.—To save the natural wealth of America by educating its people regarding the value of wild bird life, as the only sure check to the insect pests that are rapidly devastating the crops and woods of the country, is the object of a movement that was set on foot in this city today. Headed by the National Association of Audubon Societies, a campaign is to be begun in every section of the continent which it is intended shall result in the establishment of a national university devoted to the conservation of American resources through the preservation of the pest-killing birds. Suitable endowment for an educational institution of such vital economic importance is to be at once sought by officers of the association.

To greatly extend the educational work that is now being pushed with all the funds at the command of the Audubon workers is designed to be the main aim of the proposed national university. Skilled ornithologists are to be employed in investigating, compiling and analyzing scientific data showing the capacity of various species of wild birds for destroying such pests as the Gypsy Moth, the Boll Weevil and the Brown Tail Moth, whose ravages have been proven to cost the country one billion dollars in its crop yield each year. Men and women lecturers, trained at the proposed university, will be stationed in every section of the continent to present to the people proofs of their enormous loss in agricultural wealth due solely to lack of knowledge of the work done by the feathered insect-eaters, that nature intended to check crop plagues.

On the children of the land, who will face this most pressing problem when bird destruction has brought on an even more appalling spread of crop-killing insects, the knowledge of the work done by the feathered insect-eaters, that nature intended to check crop plagues.

"Nothing but the education of the American people on the value of the wild birds as crop and forest preservers can now avail to ward off the impending agricultural devastation of this land," said William Dutcher, president of the National Association of Audubon Societies, at its headquarters, 141 Broadway, today. "If some one or more persons of wealth desire to bestow upon their country the greatest possible benefaction, now and for all time, no better way could be devised than to endow such a national university on conservation through bird life as we have projected. We shall exert our best efforts to procure this extension of the educational work that we have been pushing for years."

Fall Hats.
If you are looking for some of the latest and newest creations in either the stiff or soft models in Fall hats and be shown a practical demonstration of the fact that there is a correction for every face and head and age of man, visit the Hub, corner of Main and Bank streets and look over their new goods. There is no excuse for a man to purchase a hat that does not become him or does not fit him. If you visit the Hub you'll learn the reason why.

The total production of coal in the United States last year, according to the Geological Survey, was 415,842,898 short tons, of which 33,268,754 short tons were anthracite and 332,573,944 short tons were bituminous or lignite.

The biggest rock crushing machine in the world is in operation in New Jersey. With it it is possible to break up twelve to fourteen ton boulders into six inch rocks suitable for smaller machines to crush into road-making material.

ought to be enough at this time of year to bring you in with an order.

Those who have used our COAL say they want nothing better. Call in and let us talk over the question of your winter's supply.
